

New Jersey has a tough "Do not call" list. Leave it alone. Individual states can have tougher laws than the federal government. The Supreme Court has already ruled in more than one case that the federal government should not encroach on the states' rights to pass their own tough laws.